Cute day to a page diary. Perfect for girls and women that love magical unicorns and fairy tales. Stay organised, keep your notes and plans altogether in this pretty notebook.

From the Drowning: Seeds are planted, yet flowers still die. Clocks always ticking, yet we cant find the time. The kids always growing, the years flying by. Your sons getting married, and youre fixing his tie. Tomorrows are blurry, yet the past always clear. You start breathing heavy, and your end may be near. Thinking back through, remembering life, And all of your chances to make her your wife. Our time spent alive will never slow down. It scares me to death, just like seeing no gown. Why do I feel that there was some message I missed. Of how to live life, while embracing your twist. The worst part of all is you can never turn back, Mistakes that were made you can never unpack. The only thing left is to hold my head high, While deep down inside sometimes wishing Id die.

The final reckoning has come: the future of the Land will be decided now and written in the blood of men. After his pyrrhic victory at Moorview, King Emin learns the truth about the child Ruhen - but he is powerless to act. Instead, he must mourn his dead friends while his enemy promises the beleaguered peoples of the Land a new age of peace. The past year has taken a grave toll: the remaining Menin troops seek revenge upon Emin, daemons freely walk the Land, and Ruhen's power is increasing daily. And yet, a glimmer of hope remains. There is one final, desperate chance for victory: a weapon so terrible only a dead man could wield it, and only a madman would try. But if they do not grasp this opportunity, King Emin and his allies will be obliterated as Ruhen's millennia-old plans are about to bear terrible fruit. If his power continues unchecked, Ruhen will achieve total dominion - and not just over mankind, but over the Gods themselves.

Chapter Four Terrorists attacks on Sept. 11 how influences consumer behavioral differences between US big cities and small cities How and why does terrorists attacks on Sept. 11 influence the consumer behavioral differences between US big and small cities? The New York large city was been encountered terrorists attacks, can this terrorists attacks increases the large change of consumer behavioral differences between the New York US big and other small cities in US? I shall indicate some evidences to attempt to explain whether it is possible that the large consumer behavioral differences between the US New York big city and other small cities in US as below: For cosmetic product sale industry example, whether it has raise the consumer behavioral differences between US New York big city and small cities to influence US big and small cities residents whose consumption use for personal purpose in difference. The major factors of cosmetic facial beauty product of price, attractive packing, sales promotion, advertisement, ingredients and warehouse storage factors will influence the US big city and the small cities resident consumers' attitudes and choice consumption behavioral differences after the terrorists attacks on Sept. 11 occurrence. The consumption difference is caused, due to the sale method difference of sale price, ingredients, promotion method and warehouse storage number to cosmetic products when the cosmetic consumers choose to buy any brands of cosmetic products from New York city or the other small cities after the terrorists attacks occurred. In fact, cosmetics are not just used by the US young female resident customer any longer, US young male resident customer is increasing taking as the use of more and more body sprays, perfumes and other cosmetics in New York city .

From creative depictions of Canadian bush parties, to fresh portrayals of university bathroom graffiti, this raw collection of witty stories and stunning poetry tackles male violence, coming-of-age journeys, and the female Canadian experience. Light on feminist theories, but heavy on emotional impact, Cowtan will change the way you think about domestic violence. It will capture your heart, even as it blows your mind. Every woman should read this creative compilation of poems, graphics, and short stories.

----- Excerpts from the text: @) I Count Canadian (@ "See this picture here. I was right here, in the front of the canoe with your grandfather on his hunting trip." "Yeah, I see you." I lean forward, interested. "How old do you think he was?" I ask. "Well, let's see. That's Lake Abitibi. They got two moose that year. Looks like Ross is there and Fenton. I'd say your grandfather is 35 or 40 years old in that picture," he decides. "Wow. That's around 1953. You've been a part of our family for a long time, Myson. A part of our country. Wouldn't be the same without you." I feel the bitterness coming on. The anger fueled by feelings of betrayal. Why? I think. Why did you do that to me? After generations of family loyalty to you, how could you hang me out to dry? @) Not Lucky Enough (@ Her spine curves over like a fall sunflower, to protect the seeds of love. Abandoned. Ungerminated. Beneath a brittle barrier; an arch of calcium-starved spokes echo the scarred rhythm that timidly plays. @) The Growth of Distrust (@ My first boyfriend was handsome and fair with laughing brown eyes. I remember the sun on his bare chest. His skin smooth and warm under my fingers. I didn't want to fall in love. I wasn't sweet before sixteen. But somehow, at some point, I fell for him like a setting sun. I did not realize it was night, until I could no longer see my way. @) The Plundered Bush (@ "Did you hear what happened last night at the bush party?" Sage asks. "What?" I cloak my interest by lighting a smoke. Sucking the grey fumes in through my mouth, I show off my strong, white teeth. Then, I blow it out through my nose. Dragon fierce. "Leslie, she got raped," she says in an offhand manner. I lean forward, all my attention on her now. "What do you mean, raped?" I ask. "You know-gang raped?" She steps back, seems unsure. "Who did it?" I fist my hands, and pin her against the brick wall with the intensity of my glare. "They all did." She pauses for effect like an actress. I wait for it, daring her with a narrowing of my lids. "Dayle was there, too." She drops her bomb. @) The Knight Shift (@ I'm sitting here in the shadows, To hamper the hostile fight. The paranoia of education colleges.

A total eclipse of the art? When the rusted-out remains of a vehicle with a unique vanity plate are hauled out of the Freedom River, journalist Ruth Townsend and her best friend, Wren Lawson, think they've finally learned the truth about the disappearance of their high school friend, Tanya Blackburn. The rest of Thistlewood may have believed that Tanya simply packed up and headed for the bright lights of Nashville, but the story never made sense to Ruth and Wren, and the mystery has haunted both of them for more than three decades. Things aren't always what they appear on the surface, however. A set of paintings left for Ruth at the estate sale of a former teacher seem to contain clues about what really happened to Tanya in the summer of 1987. But when Ruth unboxes the collection, she discovers that Wren may be keeping a few secrets of her own. ¿Will Ruth uncover the identity of the painter and track down the clues? Or will the answers end up like Tanya, buried at the bottom of the river?
